

Paul C. Aebersold Award

Applications are invited for the 1998 Paul C. Aebersold Award for outstanding achievement in basic science applied to Nuclear Medicine. This award commemorates the contributions of Dr. Paul Clarence Aebersold to the applications of nuclear physics to Nuclear Medicine and radiation biology, as well as his contributions to the Society of Nuclear Medicine (SNM). Dr. Aebersold contributed greatly to the emergence of Nuclear Medicine as a discipline by his energetic leadership in the provision of cyclotron-generated and reactor-produced radionuclides, and by his numerous publications and lectures. In giving this award, the Society thus symbolically signifies its appreciation of the warm and vital person who became the Society's first Honorary Member.

Nominations should be supported by the nominee's curriculum vitae and at least two letters supporting the nomination. These letters should briefly describe the contributions in basic science for which the nominee is proposed. The nominee does not need to be a SNM member.

Nominations deadline: December 31, 1997. Please submit nominations and supporting documents to William J. MacIntyre, Ph.D., c/o Society of Nuclear Medicine, 1850 Samuel Morse Drive, Reston, Virginia 20190-5316.
